Welcome to Colonnade's January 2026 monthly update for M&A in the Registered Investment Advisor (RIA) Industry

RIA M&A activity began 2026 at a more moderate level after a busy December. Sellers continued to consist mostly of sub-$1 billion firms, many of which view M&A as an opportunity to achieve liquidity, address succession planning needs, enhance operational infrastructure, and access institutional resources that can support long-term growth.

On the buy side, acquirer composition shifted slightly toward smaller platforms, although full integrators maintained the majority of deal count. Across buyer types, firms are using M&A to drive scale, expand service offerings, and strengthen competitive positioning.

The Colonnade team maintains close relationships with a wide range of industry participants and provides this report to keep them informed on relevant RIA transactions and evolving market developments.

1 CURRENT STATE OF RIA M&A

In January 2026, the RIA M&A market recorded 22 announced transactions, moderating after an active end to 2025. While deal activity slowed sequentially from 32 transactions in December 2025 and declined year-over-year from 36 transactions in January 2025, overall volume remains near the 2025 monthly average.

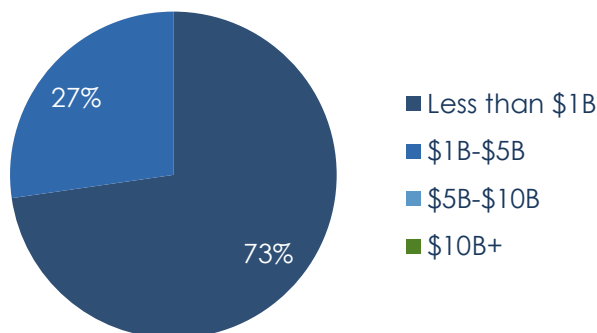

Seller composition by firm size remained consistent with the prior year, with 73% of sellers managing less than $1 billion in AUM compared to 71% across all of 2025. Acquirer composition shifted toward smaller platforms this month, as 24% of buyers fell within the sub-$5 billion AUM category relative to the 2025 average of 14%.

2 STRATEGIC INSIGHTS: January 2026

January transaction activity reflected a shift in buyer mix, driven by two strategic asset managers classified in the “Other” category. Janus Henderson’s acquisition of Richard Bernstein Advisors—the largest deal of the month—and Bimini Capital Management’s acquisition of Tom Johnson Investment Management disproportionately increased the share of assets acquired by that segment.

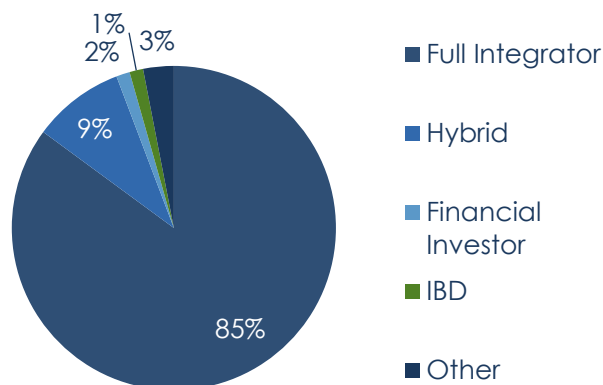

Full integrators continued to account for the majority of overall deal count, with active consolidators such as Cetera Financial Group, Carson Group, Choreo, and Mariner Wealth Advisors completing multiple transactions during the month.
